

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A connector for connecting two medium-voltage electrical power cables each including at least one conductor surrounded by an insulative jacket includes 5 tubular screw contacts which connect together stripped ends of the conductors inserted into the contacts and retained by screws. An extension attached to at least one end of the connector covers a portion of the insulative jacket of the cable over a length greater than 10 mm.